There has been annually held, for some years it, a Convection of Southern politicians, un-ribe disguise of consulting about the comercial interests of the South, and especially of ening a direct trade with Europe. That thin squise is now entirely thrown off. In the call tely issued for a meeting at Vicksburg on the hof May next, nothing whatever is said about ade, commerce, internal improvements, or y such matters. The questions that come anally before the Convention are referred to in ceall as essential, not to the productive prosty of the Southern States, but to their 'sey and repose." It is thus opealy admitted the only question about which the attention this annual Southern Convention feel any unterest; is the Slavery question, hat the only trade which they care much is the slave-trade. This lock has been extensively adopted by banks and bankers, and proved by actual test to sustain every claim made for it.

A description of it will no doubt be interesting tomany of your readers.

The interior of the lock presents to view only two setts of goar whoels (five in each set), operating on each other with an unfailing accuracy which no force that can be applied can overcome. In each one of one of the setts of gear wheels above mentioned, is a slat or opening through

Lynde has very influential conthe American people to his absurd belief. For more than twenty years, he has been a writer on Health and the laws by which it is govstyle, with a certain show of facts, and with a ally adopted than even Dr. Al-supposed; and though but few have had the courage or have lacked the mother-wit to continue for any great length of time, the practice of what he taught, pale faces, flabby muscles and enfeebled intellect in thousands of men and women may be attribu-ted to the errors which he so industriously pro-mulged. The value of his theories are proved at last by his premature death. Without the vital summins which is given to the human frame by the use of the meats which the Maker designed that man should eat, he dried up and came near crushing the men at work on the en-gines. The principal losers are Messars. Railey & Co., $60,000, Pelton, Smith & Petnam, $190, 100, Messars. Guma & Messick, $15,000. On Wednesday last the Lower Levee Cotton Press, with 10,000 bales of cotton, took fire and mead his bowels, count his inspirations, and watch for symptoms of disease—who spends a prescribed length of time in exercise every a prescribed length of time in exercise every day, and who knows nothing of the teste of roast beef—could have lived so long. Dr. Alcott is, we believe, the last of the prominent The election returns from Michigan are of the most flattering character, and indicate a Republican majority of Aflect thousand. The Detroit Advertiser in view of the result remarks:

The Republicans have effectually wiped out the reproach cast upon it by a portion of the Republican press for the diminished majority they gave last fall, and have significantly rebuiled the insulting anearcy with which the result was greeted by the doughfuse organs. The subservient demagogues will probably be more sparing of their faunts hereafter. with fong hair, cadaverous looks and uncertain with fong hair, cadaverous looks and uncertain whiskers are determined to wage upon beef and beer. whole work to secure his success, and traded and scrifficed their other men without computation, to elect him, but it was "no go." His competitor, Dr. Ww. Jarva, still came out his votes ahead—a splendid triumph, when we consider that the Democrats had beaten him a year ago by 30 majority. Our other candidates counted their majority by hundreds, and not only this, but we elected a Republican Alderman in every weard by decisive figures, which gives us a majority in the City Council, and consequently a full Republican Administration.

We are the more proud of this victory because it has been achieved here in the home of Mr. Lincoln, the Republican standard-bearer in last fall's campaign. Five years ago, Mr. Lincoln started out in this city, almost solitary and alone, as a defender of the Republican party and the Republican faith. The building up of his party in this latitude was attended with many difficulties; but the work, though gradual, has been sure. The taunts of "niggerism" and The Great Victory in St. Louis,

The official returns make the victory of Me has been sure. The taunts of "niggerism" and "amalgamation," that for a while retarded our "amaigamation," that for a while retarded our success, have less their terfor; the success of doughface weathercock Whigs of the Ben. Edwards stripe, that we dared not nominate a straight-out Republican ticket, and could never electione, have been answered by yesterday's sweeping vote. In spite of such taunts and such anseer; in spite of the feet that the Demosuch speers, in spite of the fact that the Demo-rats nominated what they deemed their most popular man for Mayor—Gen. J. B. Curran, the fast friend and right bower of Douglas and Mat ceson—in spite of the fact that he spared neither money nor means to secure his election—we have elected a full straight-out Republican ticket —nominated by a straight-out Republican mect--nonmated by a straight-out neptanican met-ing, and with ballots, beginning the words, "Re-publican Ticket," conspicuously at their head. Mr. Ligneois has the satisfaction of knowing, and we his Republican followers rejoice in the fact, that his steadfast and consistent Republican an organization it will now pass out of politics in Missouri, as it has done in every State and city in the nation except one.

Those who are but superficially acquainted with the bearing and scope of the questions at issue, may suppose that local considerations governed the result. Without underrating the induced of these entises, and recogning the induced of these entises, and recogning the induced and collective strength and confessed superiority of our ticket, yet the propitious event can be attributed only to the salutary principles which the Free Deinocracy enunciate. Mayor Filley was elected last year as an emancipationist—so was Comptroller Hoyt—and so were Messrs. Gottschalk and Papin. We sought neither new men nor new principles in this election. We could not escape the responsibility of the Free Labor issue if we would, and we would, not if we could. Without the inspiration of this cause, the thousands who yold our ticket were only a purposeless and unreliable majority. With it they are a great living force, whose destiny it is to achieve a revolution in Missouri, which history will continue to celebrate when the names of Presidents and parties are forgotten. How trivial is any mere partism triumph compared with this? Senseless watelwords, factious combinations, personal followings, and the machinery of party may carry elections sometimes, but the durability of any organization depends: that his steadfast and consistent Republican teachings, though they fell at first in a weedy and ungenial soil have taken root and Bourished a nid adverse vicissitudes, and finally matured the magnificent fruit of yesterday's victory. Let me not be misunderstood. We do not the magnificent fruit of yesterday's victory.

Let me not be misunderstood. We do not claim the whole of the sweeping majorities which we rolled up for our Municipal ticket on yesterday as partisan majorities. Many of the votes for our candidates were east by those who votes for our candidates were cast by those who have heretofore been consistent and steadflast Democrats, but who had become disgusted with the trickery, the intrigus and demagogism of so-called "Democracy" and who gladly burst their party shackles to vote for better men, than, they could find on their party ticket. Yet I think the subtraction of such would only have reduced our majorities—not robbed us of success. But admitting that it did, does not the fact speak volumes for the superiority of our organization, our principles, and our men? And is it not a more permanent and a more growing combinations, personal followings, and the machinery of party may carry elections sometimes, but the durability of any organization depends upon some great truth which imparts to the body, of which it is the great life-principle a portion of its own unchanging nature. Small cause for rejoicing in the present, or for hope in the future, would the Free Democracy find in the event of Monday; if their aspirations did not reach to the regeneration of Missouri. The moral of this election should not be lost on the parties who constitute the opposition to National Democracy. Mutual teleration is the lesson it teaches—teleration of the "American" strength? Among our accessions yesterday were a large proportion of our German citiesas. I am satisfied that their former party tranmels will no longer prevent their following the liber-ty-loving justinets, with which they are all im-

Tribuna gives the following as the theory of he defense for murdering Key I have nowhere seen, a precise electronary of the grounds upon which the defense is technically placed, or of the points upon which the great fight in the case will be made. The homicide will not be formally admitted by the defense, but will, of course, be readily proven by the prosecution, which will then rest.

The evidence of Key's criminality with Mrs. Siekles will thereupon be offered by the defense—not, however, as a justification, but as showing the state of mind in, which the deed was done which sent Key so suddenly to his account. It will be contended that Mr. Siekles was in a state of frenzy, bordering upon insanity; not, indeed, to such an extent as to absolve him from moral accountability, but sufficiently to make the killing manulaughter in the first, second or taired degree. Upon this ground the admissibility of the testimony on this point will be pressed. When it is none in it will be under to bear upon the question of guilt or innocence in the judgment of the teelve men whare to decide, will be more direct. Practically it will be used as a justification, though introduced as matter in mitigation of the offense charged.

Having dealt with the adultery and perhaps, met the presecution upon incidental questions of fact, the defense will rest.

The District Attorney will, of course, be permitted to introduce cridence upon the point raised on behalf of the prisoner, evidence bearing upon the question of the dead man's criminality and the effect produced upon the killer's mind by the discovery of the facts and by the appearance of the adulter mean his house.

Sickles's conduct in early youth, or in latter days, his general moral character, even his proclivity to vice of the very species the indulgence of which by Mr. Key he punished so speedily—grant that they can be proven—what have the yet of do with the state of mind in which the accused committed the crime charged? They are no part of the ree gestice. You have no right to raise a new issue under the pretence of introducing rebutting testimony. A similar result is expected in Rhode Island, to-day, though a second election may be required to perfect it, owing to two candidates being presented by the Opposition. The Democracy have now no show in organizing the next House, and fair play will therefore be given to the fraud investigations, next winter, which were trammelled all through the last session, by whitewashing majorities.

In recalling the letter declining the Bogota

was the avowed intention of siding such a result.

"Occasional," of the Philadelphia Press writes rom Washington under date of the 3d inst., as

An immense organization is developing itself in the South, to set at defiance the laws framed for the purpose of prohibiting the traffic in foreign slaves. It is not doubted that thousands of African slaves have been, and are now being, landed on the coasts of Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama, Florida, and Texas. You were right, the other day, in stating that this fact had been brought to the attention of the Interior Department, and that no notice has been taken of the information thus lodged, aithough the official who gave it has written a second time, begging the Government to interfere to preserve the laws, declaring his inability to do so alone, and without means, to prevent the landing and running into the interior of these cargoes of human beings. pretence of introducing rebuting testimony. We have not felt it necessary to prove a good character; you have no right to attempt to prove a bad one, when such proof has no bearing upon the fact of killing."

If, however, the evidence touching these points is admitted—to gip which it is understood that a large number of witnesses from New York are to be in attendance—the defense professes to be ready to meet and covercome it. Others are predicated myon an "if" or a "was" "call. Montefore has left London for Rome. He is the bearer of an address to the Pope, signed by the legal representatives of the Jews of the Unitee Kingdom, including Baron Rothschild, asking the fiberation of the Jewish child. Evidence will be tendered in the first place that Edgal was never baptized. The girl who says she did it, is proved to be a person of dissolute life. The respectable tradesman who (says she) urged her, swears that he did not. The Pope is carnestly invited to investigate these allegations. It has been frequently stated lately that large quantities of spurious three-cent pieces were in inculation. The following letter from the Mint nawers the inquiry of a correspondent, who niclosed one of the supposed spurious pieces:

Morr or was Carran States.

Thisdespin, March 25, 1809.

This process of the state of the 23d instant, enclosing a three-cent piece.

The law authorizing the coinage of the three-cent piece fixed the fineness at 750 thousandths.

The act of March 3, 1853, changed the fineness of this coin to 900 thousandths, and slightly reduced the weight. Some slight alterations in the device were required to indicate this modification. For this purpose a double the was engraved on the die around the star on the obverse; and within the letter C. on the reverse, there was added above the numeral III a sprig of olive, and beneath, three arrows. Many persons, in noticing the difference between the two issues, suppose the one or the other to be spurious, which, of course, is a mistate.

The piece unclosed in your letter is genuine.

m these two months, awe as much hay as would winter 1,040 head of earlie. I do not think the natural prairie grass is nearly thick enough on the ground to maintain so much stock on a given extent of land, as our good pasture land in England. But as present that is not a question of much importance, insanuch as meaniclosed prairie can be hed in most parts of the country for nothing, and when the population becomes demse enough to occupy all the prairie lands, these natural grasses will have disappeared and have given place to corn and cultivated grass.

The grass most generally preferred is the blue grass (Poe proteories,) which is indigenous on the limeatons lands of America, and will usurp the place of all other grasses on such soils in the course of years. It is said to yield a greater return of bee, milk, multon, wool, or pork, than any of the cultivated grasses.

Timothy grass is not adapted for pasture, but is generally used for hay. It yields from one and a half to two and a half tons an acre. PHOLADELPHIA PIEE AND LIFE INS. Agents

Not. AND CLIMATE.

The characteristic soil of this State is that of the prairies, of which it chiefly consists, and to which alone my attention was directed. They comprise many million acres of land, more or leas undulating—in their natural state covered with grass which is green and succulent in May, June, and July, and shoots up in autumn from three to six feet in height.

How the prairie formation originated it is unnecessary here to inquire. It is sufficient to know that we have a soil evidently of great natural fertility which for thousands of years has been bearing annual crops of grass, the ashes or decayed stems of which have been all that time adding to the original fertility of the soil. So long back as we have any knowledge of the country, it had been the custom of the Indians to stiff to the prairie grass in autumn, after frost set in, the fire spreading with wonderful rapidity, covering vast districts of country, and silling the atmosphere, for weeks with amoke. In the course of ages a soil somewhat resembling an ash-heap must have been thus gradually created, and it is no wonder that it should be cleared to be inexhaustible in fertility. Externally the prairie soil appears to be a rich back mould, with sufficient sand to render it fisable, the surface varying in depth from twelve iches to several feet, lying on a rich but not silf yellow subsoil, below which there is generally blue clay. This drift surface lies on rocks consisting of shales, sandatones, and limestones, lelonging to the coal measures.

Its chemical composition has been ascertained by me by Professor Vocklex, consulting chemit to the Royal Agricultural Society of England, whom I sent four samples of prairie soil for malysis, brought by me from different and distant points of the lands belonging to the lilmois tentral Railway Conipany. The letter of Prossor Vocklex, and a copy of the complete analysis, will be found in the Appendix. They lear out completely the high character for ferdity which practice and experience had already proved these soils to possess. The most notice elefeature in the analysis, as it appears to me, it has one of these reality which practice and experience had already roved these soils to possess. The most notice elefeature in the analysis, as it appears to me, it has one fertile soils of Britain. In each sate, taking the soil at an average depth of ten naches an aver Hydrauls and Estates.

The open prairie country is so wind swept in Winter that snow seldom lies long to any depth, and the young wheat is thus left unprotected to the frost. Should it escape that, it is liable to be thrown out by the rapid changes of weather in Spring—and if it is fortunate enough to escape both, it is sometimes destroyed, as it was last year, by its enormously rapid growth in foreing summer weather, growing as it does almost on a muck heap. In such a season as the last, the prairie wheat crops of Illinois were injured precisely in the same manner as our own in this E. I. TINKHAM & CO., Corner Clark and Lake Sts., DUPEE, BECK & SAYLES,

One great a drantage of this crop is that a large breadth of it can be cultivated by one man and a couple of boys. Two men and a boy with four horses can till 100 acres. Instancers and 60 acres of wheat being all managed by a man with his two sons and their horses. There is no harry in harvesting it. It can be cut at any time after it is ripe, and takes no injury by standing either unout or in the shock for many weeks. When consumed on the ground by cattle, the shocks are merely opened, and the cattle shell the corn for themselves. It is always convertible into money, either as corn or pork, and it is extensively used in distillation and in the manufacture of starch.

Oats are not so certain a crop, but they are extensively grown in Northern Illinois, and average about forty bushels an acre. They are resemble the oats of Northern Germany.

Mesers. J. Burnett & Co.—I cannot refuse to state the so touch it without pain. This irritated countion I attritunes to the use of various advertised halr washes, which I have since been told contained camphene spirit.

By the advice of my physician, to whom you had shown your process of putifying the oil, I commenced its use the last week in June. The first application aliayed the liching and irritation; in three or fear days the redness and tender-ness disappeared—the hair consed to fail, and I have now a thick growth of new bair. I trust that others similarly af stand with tendang to try the suppedy. Yours, very truly, SUSAN R. POPE. Burnett's Cocoaine. Burnett's Cocoaine. Burnett's Cocoaine.
